Summary

I'm a self-taught Front-End Developer from Manitoba that loves tech. I offer a detail oriented approach to building and maintaining website responsiveness, effectiveness, and security. I am looking to work with employers that both challenge and empower their employees to be the best professionals they can be.

I come from a Sales and Finance background, so I understand that a good first impression is key when engaging with clients. My work ethic and dedication have been at the forefront of every project I've been a part of, and I want to take those principles to your team.
